BELIEVER BEFORE EVERYTHING ELSE

Faith • Hope • Living Forward

"A new normal is not the end of your story, it's where your new chapter begins."
— Keisha Patrick

ABOUT KEISHA

Keisha Patrick is a Gainesville, Georgia author, speaker, and encourager. A devoted believer, wife, mother, and dog mom, she shares real and hopeful messages drawn from her own journey through love, loss, faith, and healing.

Through EGJ Angel Enterprise, Keisha brings together her writing, publishing, speaking, and encouragement work, all inspired by the love she carries for her daughter, Ella Gloria Jean. What began as a mother's love has grown into a purpose dedicated to helping others recognize that their story isn't over.

Whether through her nonfiction or fiction books, speaking engagements, online content, or Living Forward: Words of Hope, Keisha encourages others to find faith, hope, and joy again—no matter what life brings.

MY STORY

My story is one of love, loss, faith, and new beginnings. I've experienced the unexpected, and it turns that change a life. I know what it means to grieve, heal, and still find joy. I share my story not because it is unique, but because I know others are walking similar paths. My prayer is that my story—and the stories I write—remind others that their story isn't over.

LIVING FORWARD

Living forward means choosing faith, hope, and purpose even when life looks different than we planned. It's about carrying the love, the memories, and the lessons with you while stepping into the life God has for you.

"Living forward isn't just for one person or one season. It's for anyone who has ever faced an unexpected change and needed a reason to keep going."

— Keisha Patrick
